

In 2008 we will proudly celebrate

One Hundred Years of Gemmological Education

The Gemmological Association of Great Britain's Diploma in Gemmology, the highest-status international gemmology qualification, is the direct descendant of the gem course that was first proposed for the jewellery trade at the 1908 annual meeting of the National Association of Goldsmiths of Great Britain and Ireland.

The Gemmological Committee set up to oversee that educational development matured into the independent Gemmological Association and then the Gemmological Association of Great Britain, now a registered UK Charity.

We are committed to continue to develop and provide the high level of gemmological education that is increasingly needed in this rapidly changing world.

You can help us to achieve our aims by becoming an Educational Sponsor.
